

An air-conditioned vacuum testing laboratory and complete equipment with 4 pumping stands, a quadrupole mass spectrometer, and vacuum gauges are available for determination of the specific outgassing rate (measurement of differential pressure through a diaphragm).

All measurement data are collected using electronic data processing equipment.